

Chloe Sophia Moss
Writer

Chloe studied English and Philosophy at university before training as development intern at Pathe. After a couple of years in junior film development, she moved to Channel 4 Drama, from where she went on to script produce the first two series of Skins, winning a BAFTA for her work on the show. She has since been freelancing with both her script development and producing hats on, working with the Misfits team for all four seasons, as well as developing new shows with established writers. Chloe is now developing her own writing projects.
