

Sara Green

Choreographer, Movement Director, Intimacy Co-Ordinator

<https://www.saragreen.co.uk/about>

Sara is a choreographer, movement coach and intimacy coordinator working internationally across film, tv, theatre and dance. She's worked on projects for Harry Styles, Radiohead, Amazon Prime and the RSC; and received commissions for Manchester International Festival, Modern Panic and London Fashion Week. A profile piece on Sara and her work featured in the the July issue of Vogue Greece.

She's just wrapped as choreographer, movement coach and intimacy coordinator on Searchlight feature O'Dessa, and as movement coach and intimacy coordinator on upcoming Amy Winehouse biopic Back to Black. Pathe's The Great Escaper, starring Michael Caine, on which she was choreographer and intimacy coordinator, releases in cinemas this October.

This year Sara has directed movement and intimacy for Ivo Van Hove's A Little Life starring James Norton, ENO's Carmen, and is currently in rehearsals for Anthropology at Hampstead Theatre. Sara trained at Laban, and has since taught movement at Mountview, East 15, Rose Bruford and ALRA. She's run workshops for the Young Vic, RTYDS, at USF in Florida and Micadanses in Paris. She certified as an Intimacy Coordinator with ISS [Intimacy for Stage & Screen] and is accredited with BECTU. Sara is currently working as intimacy coordinator on HBO/BBC's Industry season 3.
